HUGE CROWD HEARS SECRETARY HUGO'S SPEECH

Compliments for Local Men and Affairs and an Edifying Dissertation on Automobiles and Highways Were Features of Address That Pleased Automobile Show Crowd.

Another big demonstration and another speaker of statewide interest marked the second day of the Automobile Show at the Armory which was pronounced by dealers as even more successful than the opening night. Sales of machines and more room in which to move around were two features that gave pleasure to the public while Secretary of State Hugo, the guest of the evening, gave a highly interesting address on automobile problems and the progress attained in this branch of industry and transportation.

The musical side of the program in the armory is much appreciated during the afternoon and evening as shown by the applause frequently given to popular numbers. The number and variety of the exhibits of accessories add to the interest displayed in the cars.

Mayor Palmer Canfield introduced Secretary of State Hugo who made a very happy introduction with his references to the city of Kingston and some of its leading men, such as Judge Clearwater to whose attainments as a jurist the speaker paid marked tribute. Senator Charles W. Walton and Assemblymen DeWitt and Lefever came in for praise for their services in the legislature and Philip Elting also came in for complimentary comment. In speaking of automobile shows upon which he is an authority, Secretary Hugo said in part:

Exhibition an Education.
"Automobile Shows represent the universities of the motor trade and just as their faculties are made up of experts who know what they are talking about, just so there are present at motor car exhibitions, experts who offer the greatest opportunities for study. Moreover these exhibitions are usually attended by the best salesmen and nothing, therefore, could be more instructive than to listen to interesting talks given by these experienced men."

Referring particularly to the Kingston Show, Mr. Hugo pointed out that such exhibitions of motor cars and their accessories draw public attention very forcibly to an aspect of the industry quite different from that contemplated by the public in its daily experience and that it is in every way good that they should have opportunities of this kind to give breadth to their views and enable them to realize the magnitude of this industry.

"It is especially evident, however, said he, that for variety and comprehensiveness, the present exhibition could not easily be surpassed for it offers great attractions even to those who do not possess a motor car. For those who can afford, its interest of course is a hundredfold more intense for they have the unique opportunity of surveying the motor products of the world with their innumerable varieties."

Proof of Giant Industry.
"Besides, the Kingston Show displays a very striking proof of the magnitude of the motor car industry, now celebrating its sixteenth birthday and also of the rapidity with which it has reached during this time its present flourishing condition. Although still very young, the automobile business employs an immense capital reaching into billions of dollars while its annual output exceeds millions of dollars in value and is increasing rapidly, attracting to itself a very considerable share of the engineering skill and inventiveness of the day."

Referring to the future of this industry, Mr. Hugo expressed the opinion that many thoughtful visitors at the show may have wondered whether this great development in mechanical locomotion is leading, as a question, he said, which, although it cannot be settled at once, is most interesting. "The motor car has already had a profound influence," said he, "upon the general habits of traveling in this country. In some ways it has assisted, in others, it has been a great disadvantage to the railroads who hitherto have had a complete monopoly of long distance and fast traffic."

Social Uplift of Auto.
Mr. Hugo explained how the motor car had diminished the number of horse-drawn vehicles moving upon the public highways, especially in their higher forms and he prophesied that while the light horse and small truck are likely to be with us for some time to come, nevertheless, he believed that all of the more expensive forms of locomotion will be rapidly supplanted by mechanical power.

"Moreover, the social effect of the motor car is beginning to be apparent," he concluded, "and social reformers are beginning to realize that one room tenements and the disadvantage of congested housing can be more effectively and more cheaply combated by increased facilities, possible only by means of improved road locomotion rather than by expensive building schemes."

May Tax All Vehicles.
Among the interesting predictions made by the speaker was that at the present rate of growth in the use of highways, the time is soon coming when every vehicle, whether horse drawn or motor driven, is going to pay something toward the maintenance of highways. The audience applauded this statement and the one which followed it wherein the speaker congratulated automobile clubs of the state upon the part they played in legislation which he believed was a fair part.

One warning note he sounded in connection with safety on the streets told of the 1,127 lives crushed out during the past year under the wheels of motor vehicles and the record of last September alone when 167 lives were lost in similar street accidents.

The people of the state of New York are not going to stand for this," he declared. "If this record keeps up and improvement is not shown in the conduct of autoists you will see some legislation on the statute books more drastic than any you ever even dreamed."

WHERE THIRTY DIED IN TRIPLE CRASH OF FLIERS.
Here is shown the wreckage of the three last fliers on the New York Central, reduced to a mass of wreckage in the crash which occurred at Amherst, O., thirty-seven miles west of Cleveland. Between twenty-five and thirty lives were lost in the wreck. Forty persons were injured.

The second section of the east bound Chicago-Pittsburgh Limited crashed into the first section of the same train in a dense fog, and a few minutes later the westbound Twentieth Limited ploughed into the wreckage which had bulged over a parallel track.

PUTTING PEP IN THE BIG AUTO SHOW

Free Rings and Cigar Lighters Make a Hit With Those Who See Others Get Them and Add to Interest of the Show.

Today is the last opportunity to see Kingston's first big automobile show and everyone who has not visited the show will probably attend this evening while those who have been will again go. That the automobile show has been a decided success, to the dealers and to the general public who have attended, is settled.

The views as expressed by the visitors as they enter and leave the armory are evidence of the general "thumbs up" of the exhibit. "Cool," remarks as "The best show in the Hudson valley," "Bigger and better than any show I have attended," "The finest display of cars I have ever seen," and similar remarks show the sentiment of the public toward the show.

There is little doubt in the minds of those who have attended that the show this year will be so successful that it will become the custom of the dealers to hold a show annually.

Beside the showing of cars and accessories line is one of the most interesting. Goods of all description for the comfort and convenience of the motorist are shown in the side rooms of the big drill shed. Beside the accessories shown, many novelties were introduced and souvenirs were given away to visitors. At the booth of the Warren sporting goods store free rings were given, much to the delight and amusement of the public. An interested visitor who stepped up to the booth was asked if he had a souvenir ring and being anxious to receive something by which he could remember Kingston's big show he answered that he had not. An inquiry as to the size of ring he wished brought out the fact that he was a pretty big man and wanted a big ring. This he was given in the shape of a ring from a huge electric bell firmly attached to the counter, and judging from the number of rings heard throughout the evening many a person received his souvenir ring.

At other booths souvenirs in the form of stick pins and cigar lighters were given away. The stick pins being identical with the pins such as are used by every unfortunate person who has lost a button from his clothing and the cigar lighters being in the shape of one sickly match. Many a trip was made from one end of the armory to the booth at the other end to secure a cigar lighter or some other equally valuable present.

Of course the newly made Kingston car which is made by the Warren store, attracted considerable attention. The price of the car, $195, the fact that no tin is used and the car being so completely equipped gave many a person a surprise. It is said that the car is speedy and at its highest rate of speed consumes little gas and is easy on tires.

Another car which attracted considerable attention was a Ford touring car with every accessory installed. Crown fenders had replaced the usual fenders, electric starting and lighting system, shock absorbers, everything to new designed hub caps had been installed and throughout the night the car attracted a curious crowd.

A dozen of Kingston's prominent people will be seen driving new cars within a short time, many of whom are well known autoists, while others join the ranks for the first time. Whether the statement that gasoline would shortly take a drop is responsible for this sudden outbreak or the excellent showing made by the cars at the armory is not known but something has caused the once-wary pedestrian to join the ranks of autoists.

The crowd this evening will be as large if not larger than on the previous evenings as Judge William D. Cunningham and Mr. Callan, father of the Callan automobile law, will be the speakers.

HIGH SCHOOL PRIZE WINNERS

The committee appointed to determine the prize winners in the display card contest among the high school pupils who designed cards for the automobile show faced a very grave problem when the determining of prize winners came up. All of the work was of such a high standard that it was difficult to determine which was the better design.

The committee in charge of the prize awarding was Arthur C. Long-Tuor, Miss Grace White and William W. Mitchell. After much deliberation it was decided that the first prize should be awarded to Edwin A. Koch, whose poster represented the National car, second to W. L. Long-year whose favorite was a Packard, and third prize to Bob Adams who designed and executed the work for the Stuyvesant Garage. Sahler Hornbeck, whose work was of the highest order, was given special mention and only for the fact that some of the work had been traced would have been among the prize winners. The three prize winners were all free-hand work.

The high standard of the work was such that the committee decided to award a prize of $1 to every contestant who were as follows: Arust Aubrey, K. Kelder, Gould Ganoung, Eugene Ryan, Albert Conway, Edwin Koch, Bob Adams, Phillips, Watson Wheeler, E. Rel-vea, C. Reynolds, N. Stock, Louis Silverman, S. Wolff, Peter Ryan, William Capache, R. Dana, Watson Haines, William Hunter, Helen Miller, J. Lennox, J. Kiernan, Sahler Hornbeck and L. Longyear.

Moran School Notes.
At a test given in the typewriting department of the Moran Business School Friday, the following students secured marks entitling them to Remington Typewriter Company awards: James D. Kenny, Santos Cagace and Ambrose Weir.

Of the students who took their final examination in stenography at the Moran School yesterday, the following secured satisfactory grades and will now receive their diplomas: Mildred DuBois, Gertrude Roehl and John J. Hickey.

Spring Festival at Trinity.
The annual dinner and spring festival at Trinity Methodist Church will be held April 11 and 12. Great preparations are being made to serve a fine dinner on Tuesday and a supper on Wednesday. "The Feast of the Little Lambs," a charming entertainment, will be given each evening by a very pretty Oriental maidens. The room will be attractive in its eastern setting and interesting articles will be found in each booth.

At Ponckhockie Church Tonight.
A delightful surprise is underway for all those who attend the Christian Endeavor social at the Ponckhockie Church on Auburn street this evening. The young people will render an excellent program and the young ladies will serve refreshments. A nominal sum will be charged for admission. This will include the entertainment and refreshments.

War Horses in Town.
A carload of horses en route to the great European war were unloaded at the livery stables of Bonesteel Brothers on Cornell street and fed. The consignment of horses came from St. Louis and according to law the animals must be taken from the cars and watered and fed after a certain time has elapsed. After being cared for, they were again taken to the car and the journey resumed.

NEWBURGH HOPING FOR 18 CENT GAS

Automobile Club Directors Plan to do Their Own Retailing of Fluid Working For Ulster County Highway Connection.

Directors of the Newburgh Automobile Club have authorized the purchase and installation of a tank which will hold two carloads of gasoline. As soon as this tank is secured the club will buy two carloads of gasoline from an independent dealer and will sell the fuel to any of its 200 members at cost. The directors believe that through this means they will be able to sell "gas" to club members at from 16 to 18 cents a gallon. The two oil companies are making their retail sale price so the distributors have to sell at 30 cents a gallon. The same measure has been used in other places and with great success.

The secretary was directed to write to the state highway department, calling attention to the almost impassable condition of the three-mile stretch of highway from the Cronometer Valley road through Saratoga and Plattekill to the Ulster county line. This is an important link in the road and the club requests that it be improved. The board of supervisors of Orange county also has been requested to improve the road.

CAPT. CHRIS AT HELM.
Eddyville Yacht Started Season Thursday Night.

Overhauled and painted for the season the staunch little steam yacht Charles A. Shultz, with Captain Chris Haber at the helm, started the season between Rondout and Eddyville on Thursday evening. Captain Haber, the veteran mail carrier, who takes the mail from Rondout to South Rondout, started his mail boat running on Friday and he remarked that the only reason his friend Captain Chris started the Shultz running the night before was because Captain Chris was superstitious. The question now is, is he?

To Investigate Experiments.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, April 1.—The Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has petitioned Congressman Ward to use his influence in support of a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire and in the house by Representative Julius Kahn of California, which, if it goes into law, will authorize the secretary of agriculture to examine into the extent and conditions of the practice of experimentation on living dumb animals in hospitals, laboratories, etc. Mr. Ward's support is especially solicited in this matter as he is a member of the committee on agriculture to which committee the bill was referred. It is likely that the bill will be reported favorably.

To Increase Veteran's Pension.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, April 1.—On March 20 Congressman Ward introduced in the house a bill to increase the pension now being received by Hiram Beach of Liberty, a civil war veteran. Mr. Beach, who carries the scar of a bullet wound in past service years of age and at the present time is confined to his bed by sickness.

That Wretched Mail Service.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, April 1.—Congressman Ward is still awaiting the final report of the post office department regarding the matter of better mail service across the Hudson river at Kingston. It is expected that the final report will be received by the congressman's office within a very short time.

VILLA WOUNDED AND FORCE ROUTED

Hope That Bandit Chief Cannot Escape Capture or Death at an Early Date—Fight Occurred on March 29.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
El Paso, Tex., April 1.—That Francisco Villa, his forces routed by the American troops in the battle at San Geronimo, and himself wounded, will be unable to escape capture or death for many days was the belief expressed by United States officers at Fort Bliss and General Gaviira, the Carranza commander at Juarez today. Three days have passed since Wednesday's conflict, which the Americans won after traveling 55 miles in seventeen hours along a difficult road, and it is expected that the next news coming from General Pershing will give more thrilling details of the battle.

The outstanding fact is that Villa's power has been smashed. Defeated by a force numerically smaller and feeling better than the "Gringos," for whose fighting power he had often expressed contempt, it is believed here that most of his followers will desert, and that if he attempts to hide in one his mountain dens his betrayal is certain.

The border is still ringing with praise of Colonel George A. Dodd, who led the American troops in their dash to San Geronimo. Inough General Pershing directed the plan of campaign, it is understood that the movement which resulted in Villa's defeat was made by Dodd upon his own initiative, he having been out of communication with his superior for two days.

The famous Seventh Cavalry, Custer's old command, responded in able fashion to their colonel's call for more speed in the dash to get Villa and their marksmanship in the battle that ended the dash resulted in heavy losses to the Villistas.

Of the Americans in the battle none was killed outright. Four were wounded, and General Bell, the commander at Fort Bliss, has received word that one of them was fatally injured.

Fears that have prevailed along the border since the punitive expedition entered Mexico have been pretty effectively dispelled by the victory won by the American troops in their first clash with the Villistas. Morbid citizens of the border states had feared that any reverse for the Americans would be the signal for a general Mexican uprising that would extend even to the Mexican sections on the frontier towns. This danger has been completely averted, according to observers here, by Colonel Dodd's brilliant feat.

The daily rumor of a raid by Mexicans into American territory reached here early this morning. It was to the effect that a small body of bandits had crossed the border ten miles east of El Paso and robbed an American ranch house. The report was brought by an employee of the Intermountain Street Car Line, and a detachment of soldiers was immediately sent along the border to investigate.

Villa has not only been defeated by the American troops. His forces in the Torreon district, led by General Canuto Reyes, have also been decisively beaten in a battle with Carranza troops. Reyes was attempting to destroy the railroad near Torreon when he was surprised by a government force and suffered heavy losses.

Heavy rains have set in along the border, and far south in Mexico it is believed, however, that the American troops are pursuing Villa despite the water pouring down the gullies, and making the paths increasingly difficult to follow.

Somewhere, just a few hours before then, it was reported that Villa and his scattered men were making an effort to reassemble. Villa himself was carried on a litter by chosen followers.

Some reports conveyed information that Villa had gathered scattered forces at some rendezvous, and was preparing to fling them at Chihuahua in a last desperate effort to recoup. His defeat at San Geronimo meant something more than the loss of 20 men, and his ablest general, Eliso Hernandez, it meant a powerful blow at his "amigos" in the Guerrero country.

Villa had promised that he would whip the American expedition and send it flying back to the border. Villa really was confident that American cavalry could never operate successfully against his own wild horsemanship.

"Their horses are too big," he said. "They are clumsy; they cannot live in mountains."

It was just this view that accounts for the surprise at San Geronimo. Villa's scouts had reported that the American cavalry was 55 miles away. General Hernandez received the reports, and no doubt was moved by Villa's contempt for the American cavalry. He made camp. Meanwhile Colonel Dodd and his cavalrymen were pounding their way from the neighborhood of Namiquipa.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, April 1.—After irregular changes at the start the stock market developed pronounced strength in practically everything dealt in this morning, and during the first 15 minutes prices were established at materially higher levels.

Most interest was attached to the trading in Mexican Petroleum in which initial sales were recorded as 2,500 shares from 109 1/2 to 110 1/2 with a further gain to 110 1/2 against 108 1/2 at the close yesterday. Other stocks in the Mexican group also made substantial gains, American Smelting gaining 1 1/2 to 102 1/2, and Greene Cananea 1/4 to 49 1/2. Utah Copper rose 1/2 to 82 1/2, Chino 1/2 to 55 1/2, and fractional upturns were made in Kennecott, Miami, and Inspiration. Crucible Steel was the most active of the specialties, gaining 1 1/2 to 93 1/2. New Haven yielded 1/4 at the start to 62 1/2, but rallied to 63. New York Central moved up 1/4 to 104 1/2, and Marine Pfd., up 1/4. The market closed firm. Trading was dull in the last hour, but prices generally held close to the range established in the early forenoon. Mexican Petroleum held its early gain. A continued demand was noted in the copper stocks, although no further advances were made in these issues. Crucible Steel, after reacting a point, rallied slightly. Maxwell motor moved up over a point on slow buying. Governments unchanged; other bonds irregular.

FOUND DEAD AT NEWBURGH

Former Pataukunk Man Asphyxiated
During Wife's Absence—Death
Believed to Have Been Accidental.

Albert E. Schoonmaker was accidentally asphyxiated by illuminating gas in his home, 3 Lander street, Newburgh, Wednesday night. His body was discovered early Thursday morning by Eli Drake, who boards with him. Coroner Dubois has given a verdict of accidental asphyxiation and the body was taken to Mr. Schoonmaker's former home in Pataukunk, Ulster county, for burial. He was a ship carpenter, formerly in the employ of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, but more recently employed by the Tank Ship Building Company. He is survived by Mrs. Schoonmaker and a son and daughter.

Following his usual custom Mr. Schoonmaker settled himself in an easy chair in the kitchen of his home Wednesday night after his supper and prepared to read the evening papers. He frequently fell asleep in this chair and remained there over night. Close to the chair was a gas range and one of the cocks of this was half turned, permitting gas to escape.

Mrs. Schoonmaker had been called to Kerhonkson on Tuesday to see her mother who is seriously ill. Drake boards with the Schoonmakers and has a room on the floor under the kitchen. When Mr. Drake awoke Thursday morning he went upstairs and saw Schoonmaker apparently asleep in the chair. He kicked his foot. Receiving no response he gave another kick. Then he felt Schoonmaker's hand. It was cold.

Drake went to Scully's cafe on Broadway and informed them he could not awaken Schoonmaker. He telephoned Coroner Dubois.

Schoonmaker was born in Pataukunk, Ulster county, in November, 47 years ago. In 1887 he married Miss Carrie Decker. Their children are Mrs. Iva Brown of Little Britain and William J. Schoonmaker of Bridgeport, Conn. He went to Newburgh about 15 years ago and has worked there ever since. He was a member of Napanog Tribe of Red Men of Ellenville.

The KITCHEN CABINET

I wish, I can, I will, are the three trumpet notes to victory.

Happiness is a fact, not an attainment, it comes from within, not from possessions without.

CHEESE COMBINATIONS.

The wholesome cheese is a food in itself and when combined with vegetables makes a well-balanced dish.

Baked Cabbage With Cheese.—Remove the heart and outer leaves from a small head of cabbage. Cook until tender in boiling, salted water, uncovered. Drain and cut down the sides, fill with cheese sauce. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and brown in the oven.

Cheese Sauce.—Add a tablespoonful of butter to two of flour and cook until smooth, then add a cupful of milk, a dash of red pepper, a half teaspoonful of salt and a cupful of dry grated cheese. Pour at once into and around the cabbage. Do not cook after the cheese is added or it will become stringy.

A cheese to be right for cooking, such as rarebits and fondues, should be smooth and melt when pressed against the roof of the mouth; feel smooth and without grains.

Bean and Cheese Roast.—Put a can of kidney beans through a meat grinder. Add an eighth of a teaspoonful each of mace and pepper, a teaspoonful of salt, half a clove of garlic, a cupful of grated cheese and half of a green pepper, chopped; add bread crumbs so that the mixture may be formed into a roll. Bake in a moderate oven. Serve hot or cold. Fine for a sandwich filling. If served hot, horse-radish sauce is good.

Horse-Radish Sauce.—Take a half cupful of grated horse-radish root, one at a half cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of sugar and a third of a cupful of soft bread crumbs; cook together twenty minutes in a double boiler, then add three tablespoonfuls of butter, a half teaspoonful each of salt and cinnamon. Serve hot.

Cheese With Rice.—Take a cupful of cooked rice, add a half teaspoonful of salt, and a cupful and a third of grated cheese, a half cupful of hot milk, then add four egg yolks beaten thick and fold in the stiffly-beaten whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven. Serve as soon as firm.

Fine Program by Miss Dero.

Miss Ruth Dero, who is to give the piano recital at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening next, has arranged for the recital a program of exceptional interest to all who enjoy music. It will include a group of Schumann numbers, two Bach numbers that are particularly beautiful; the Brahms' "Intermezzo, B-flat"; a couple of Chopin selections; one of Miss Dero's own compositions and one by her master, Mac Dowell, and a Debussy number. Lovers of music regardless of training, conservative musicians and modernists will all find works to especially please them in such a program. Tickets may be had from members of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., at Rider's music store, Forsyth & Davis's, and Johnston's drug store on the Strand.

Make the Goods Talk

Every storekeeper knows that goods sell best when they are placed where people can see them. Displayed goods talk for themselves.

When the manufacturer advertises in the newspaper he has created a receptive audience for his particular goods to talk to.

The storekeeper who shows the newspaper advertised goods in his window is getting quick results because interest in these brands has been aroused by the advertising.

Alert storekeepers are quick to co-operate with the manufacturer's newspaper advertising.

Convention Defined.

Convention may be defined as a sort of precedent or custom which restrains a lady from cursing when she is as mad as a hornet, but which permits a man to swear like a trooper when he steps on a collar button.

Cause for Optimism.

When a man yields to the pleading of his wife and goes to church for the first time in thirty years, he swells up and talks about it as though he had a ticket on the New Jerusalem Limited straight to heaven.

NOTABLE LECTURE BY A CHICAGO MAN

Christian Science System of Philosophy Subject of Scholarly Definition by Bicknell Young, C. S. B., Before Audience in Fair Street Edifice.

A notable definition of Christian Science as the attainment of a scientific ideal in the healing art was given Friday night at the new Christian Science Church, Fair Street, where Bicknell Young, C. S. B., of Chicago delivered the annual lecture to a fair sized audience. County Judge Jenkins introduced the speaker who spoke in part as follows:

That you and I can think—that we are thinking at the present moment, involves the primary fact that intelligence exists. It is self-evident also that our capacity to think is not a personal thing. Every human being has possessed it in some degree, and even the higher order of animals appear to have a measure of it, yet intelligence never belonged exclusively to any particular man or woman or race or creature. The history of humanity shows it to be something more than a limited possession. It is an universal heritage.

There have been many beliefs about God, and many of them were elevating and helpful to the extent that they were comforting, but in Christian Science something more is required and supplied.

Intelligence is both a prerequisite and concomitant of all legitimate scientific and Christian Endeavor. Its nature is unquestionably infinite, therefore primarily divine. In view of this fact now utterly unreasonable to disassociate God from science. Consequently, Christian Scientists, though ardent Christians, are not less, but more scientific than other scientists. When asked how Christian Science heals, they can truthfully answer, through intelligence, and they can reasonably ask in their turn, is there any other way of doing anything correctly?

Divine intelligence is conceivable only as spirit, omnipotence, omniscience, omnipresence. It is inconceivable therefore that divine intelligence, spirit, could not do anything directly that needs to be done, and consequently not conceivable that it could or would provide some indirect means for leading the sick.

Theories predicated upon the necessity for material remedies or methods in healing are wanting in reason and logic. Now observe that the method of Christian Science is diametrically opposite to them. It illustrates the scientific world; for even in the material world there has always been the hope that some time or other some power would become available by direct means and without waste of energy or loss in transmission. This idea has never been applied to the healing of the sick or the regeneration of mankind until the advent of Christian Science. In this practice alone we have applied, and the ideal practically realized, the scientific principle. The power which heals disease in Christian Science is the divine mind. It is available only as mind. While the ordinary physician says that he believes in the intelligent use of drugs or other material remedies, we say and prove that we know how to rely upon divine intelligence itself. Where is the real thinker who can doubt that the latter system is far more scientific than the former?

The discoverer and founder of Christian Science was the greatest of all modern thinkers along purely metaphysical and strictly philosophical lines. She was not only clear, but fearlessly consistent. When other thinkers came face to face with the conflict between the ideals of life which point to the spiritual facts of being, and the material everyday experiences which conflict with such ideals, they yielded their ideals to the evidence of the material senses. In the light of pure reason it is not strange that, swayed by such inconsistency, they evolved contradictory theories of religion and philosophy. Mary Baker Eddy, on the other hand, saw that spiritual facts, though contrary to the evidence of the material senses, and though humanly idealistic, relate most nearly to the basic principle and boundless power which men call God. Consequently her scientific system of healing disease and overcoming sin requires that divine facts when discerned shall be maintained even in the face of any and all material evidence that appears to be contrary to them. This method is in accordance with the methods of the greatest investigators of the world, although it was never adopted by metaphysicians or philosophers prior to her time. By means of this method, original with her, divine metaphysics became a practical science.

In accounting for evil she shows in her books that human existence, while self-existent, is not self-explanatory. It indicates God, but never represents Him. The mistake of ordinary systems of education is to suppose that it does. Christian Science announces and makes clear the ideas which reveal God, and conversely explains and accounts for evil of every form.

No other system has ever satisfactorily explained evil. When Mrs. Eddy discovered Christian Science and wrote the Christian Science textbook she brought to light the fact that the very nature of evil is erroneous, and that to truth, which is the intelligence of immortal mind, Science and Health, p. 282, error must be unreal. Here you find all evil frankly, fully and finally explained, and the advantage of such explanation is that by means of it sin and disease are destroyed.

On the one side there is an ever increasing fear of disease and no decreasing tendency to sin in that great part of the human race which is taught to believe in the naturalness, reality and inevitableness of sin. On the other, the comparatively few people who have considered and accepted the unquestionable fact that God could not be the author of such destructive elements as sin, disease, and who have consequently shaped their thought and action according to this, the highest and only correct standpoint, have healed thousands of cases of diseases that had always been considered incurable, and reformed thousands of people who had been considered hopeless sinners. Indeed they have accomplished so much good for themselves and others through some understanding of Christian Science as to excite not only the curiosity but the interest of the civilized world.

To the one who appears to have a disease it may seem more real than God, good. Indeed, that may be chiefly both the cause and presence of the disease. Now, suppose that such a one should begin to see that disease is unreal, would it do him any harm? Judging from the standpoint of ordinary healing methods, would he be any worse off, having learned enough to know that God is not the author of disease, and that therefore in the sight of God it has no being? Why, without doubt that person would be better off for having learned that much of Christian Science. Now, suppose that such knowledge should improve and increase so that, instead of finding his intelligence made up mostly of human theories and largely of beliefs in and fears of disease, sin and death, he should even dimly perceive and entertain those simple ideas which reveal the divine intelligence, the infinite mind, the one God, would he not have gained in intelligence? Would his intelligence not be superior to what it previously was and would he not therefore be more intelligent?

We are not opposed to physicians nor to their legitimate attempts to do good. We are only opposed to sanitation. We are only opposed to its present inadequacy. We believe that it should not only mean perfect cleanliness of body and environment, but that it should extend to the human mind and character, which should be thoroughly cleansed and kept clean. No one need to take more word for the efficacy of such a system. Any person or community can try it. Just as the tendency to sin can be weakened and destroyed by refusing to entertain degrading thoughts, in exactly the same way the tendency to disease can be weakened and destroyed. Christian Science not only explains all this, but gives one the power of Christ with which to accomplish it.

Overcoming Fear.
Fear is no legitimate part of education. The Bible says that God has not given up the spirit of fear, and that statement beyond all question is logical and relevant. The fear which forms a part of the ordinary person's education can be overcome at least gradually through a slight understanding of Christian Science. This is especially true of the fear of disease.

It is far more important to get rid of the fear of germs and microbes than it is to get rid of the germs or microbes themselves. Doctors often find that a very harmless germ and much fear produce fatal results, while even a comparative state of fearlessness with the presence of so-called deadly germs gives the patient at least a fair chance for recovery.

True Philosophy.
Thus we see that all that could mean happiness for the human race can and will be brought to pass through Christian Science. The true philosophy of living is not one which enables us stoically to bear our burdens and troubles. The gospel of Jesus is not to reconcile us to present afflictions, with a mere hope of future happiness. The real philosophy of true Christianity is to be found in that science which Mrs. Eddy has given to the world, and which provides not merely the ability to endure trouble, but that much greater and more essential ability to prevent and overcome it. The way involves prayer, but it is not mere asking something. In its highest sense, prayer is knowing the exact truth so clearly that the error, whether it be disease or sin, is not accepted even though it has the appearance of reality, and finding no support in one's belief, disappears. This kind of prayer is available only to those who think, and in order that the thinking may be more and more improved day by day and become more truly logical and more permanently satisfying, it is essential that one should exercise the true thinking capacity in all that he may be called upon to do. This method, though it implies willingness, is not on effort of the human will. On the contrary, it is much more spontaneous than any such effort can ever be.

Peace.
With no understanding of God as divine Principle, human beings are subject to fear, and fear in turn breeds envy, hatred, malice, revenge, false pride and mad ambition, all of which are the brood of evils that make war. If we are entertaining any of them in ourselves it would be vain for us to pray for peace to come to others. The efficacious prayer of Christian Science begins to eliminate these elements from our own thought and lives. When they shall cease from our lives and no longer find lodgment in our consciousness, then we have established peace on firm foundations. The help of such prayer, though it appears personal, really extends to all mankind. It is therefore possible that we who are here, if we pray in this way faithfully, if we pray in this way faithfully, the magnitude of whose society, the magnitude of whose influence shall be incalculable. All may join this constant self-examination and correction by which, and by which alone, war shall be made to cease. Such a peace society needs no organization and no shrine, but, my friends, it does need faithfulness. Establish it in the sacred realm of unselfish thought, for that is its temple. There you can help the nations by reducing the sum total of wrong beliefs which constitute their fear. There you gain the Christ likeness, the "I, I, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." There is the temple of right thought, which the Bible calls the temple of the Holy Ghost. You will discern the angels which the Bible constantly speaks of, and Health, Mrs. Eddy, in Science and Health, p. 282, defines God's thoughts passing and perfect. Angels are knocking at the door of consciousness. Let them in. They will go with you to your homes, to your business or other daily duty.

They will guide your hand and direct your feet. They will give you wisdom and courage in the hour of trial or difficulty. They will comfort, sustain, protect and heal you. These angels come only in the glorious realm of mind. There, where everything that is beautiful is to be found, there where music and poetry and art and all that gladden even human existence is to be discerned; there in the realm of immortality, purified and glorified through Christian Science, you may still hear these angels singing as they sang of old, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

The automobile show has brought other good things for the high school besides the governor, for Friday morning the boys' industrial classes were given the much esteemed privilege of a trip to the automobile show free of charge. The students were as much taken with the various demonstrations as the men who were around with the interest manifested by the pupils, and the remark was heard made by some of the city's prominent business men, that here surely the young people were receiving a great education.

The classes were given a special demonstration of the stripped chassis of a Franklin, and a Cadillac car by specialists in the automobile industry. They had the two systems of water cool, and air cool engines explained to them, and the superiorities of the two different cars over each other were clearly pointed out. The young people were shown around all over the exhibit, and various minor demonstrations were made for them. The students were so pleased with the morning which they had spent so profitably that they immediately upon returning to the high school drew up a letter of sincere thanks, and appreciation which they sent to Chairman Fowler.

Dance a Success.
The low priced dance which the Junior Class gave Friday evening, was a huge success. Previously when there has been a dance for the whole evening, the organization in school which clanger to giving the dance never thought of furnishing punch or decorating the gymnasium unless they were going to get more than fifty cents a couple. But the juniors have set the pace. Included these things in their entertainment and lowered the price to 25 cents a couple. The hall was decorated with flags, bunting and pennants, and this time both pennants of old "Ester and K. A. were in sight. The punch made under the direction of the juniors themselves was more than equal to any that has so far put in its appearance at a school dance this year. At least it was so until shortly before the dance broke up some rude, innocent piker poured several pounds of sugar into the bowl in a vain endeavor to get as much merriment out of the dance as the dance men were having. Mr. Schon a member of the class ably furnished the music and the dance broke up about 11 o'clock.

Seniors Will Dine Alone.
The Seniors, in accordance with their dignity and so forth, may be given a separate dining room which both the girls and boys of that class will use. They will now lunch or rather dine on the breezy balcony of the gymnasium and this little mark of distinction seems to have been thought of as a means of producing the proper respect for the Senior Class. Perhaps after they have given their play and a few other things the students will be more free to grant them the reverence they desire. This bill brought up in the student council meeting has not been sanctioned by the faculty, but the hearty applause with which it was received does much to assure its enactment.

Flower Lecture.
On the afternoon of Wednesday, April 12, at 3:15 o'clock (directly after school), a most unusual lecture will be given in the high school auditorium by Herbert W. Faulkner, whose subject will be "The Mysteries of Flowers." This lecture is being given by the Ulster Garden Club for the benefit of the children's home garden work in the city, and a nominal admission of 10 cents for students and 25 cents for adults will be charged. This lecture, which will be most interesting, will be illustrated with lantern slides of rare worth and beauty. All who love flowers and are interested in the children's home gardens are asked to keep this date in mind.

Mohank Opens May 12.
The Lake Mohank House will open on May 12. The annual peace conference which is looked forward to by many countries will hold its first session on May 16. Many prominent men from foreign countries will be present and give addresses. It is undoubtedly the interest this year will be greater than ever before.

Dusty Roads and Snowy Fields.
Dusty highways and snow five feet deep was the unusual sight reported in several parts of Ulster county during the warm weather of Friday and this morning.

Monticello Jag List.
Monticello is to have a "jag list" of citizens who are habitual drunkards and saloon men will urge in the enforcement of the law when such men are posted.

"Ghost" Was a Rat.
A rat running over a typewriter at night was found to be the "ghost" of a garage at Dobbs Ferry. The ghost was laid by a pussy-footed typist on the night track.

Dead Deer Due To Dogs.
Ten deer were found dead in Orange county during the month of March, nearly all killed by dogs to whom they fell an easy prey in the deep snow.

DRAWING LINE ON FREE AUDITORIUM

Local Musical Societies Turned Down Because of Charging Admission or Issuing Invitations—Two Requests Granted.

Three local musical societies and one Kingston business house, who have been entertaining hopes of being granted the use of the high school auditorium for concerts and a demonstration, had their wishes denied by the board of education at its monthly meeting Friday night because the school fathers thought that the granting of the use of the hall would be a violation of the law, inasmuch as admission was to be charged by two of the societies while the third, strictly admission to its friends. The demonstration was denied because it was thought to be an advertising scheme. Two requests to use the auditorium were granted, conditions at the various schools reported, and routine business transacted at a rather lively meeting. Trustee Washburn was the only absentee.

The request of the National Security League for use of the hall on the evening of Thursday, April 6, for a free lecture on the defenses of the United States was granted, on motion of Trustee Gill.

Trustee Gill's motion that the hall be used by Baroness Howard, an American daughter of Francis Wilson, for a free lecture on Red Cross work in Europe on April 20, carried unanimously.

The first request for the use of the hall was that of the Y. M. C. A. Glee Club, which wished to hold its annual concert May 23 in the high school because their hall was not large enough. They were to charge admission and for this reason their request was unanimously denied, with the provision that if no admission were charged they would be granted the use of the hall.

For the same reason the Symphony Society's request was denied. Their concert was to have been given after-noon and evening of April 10.

Because the Mendelssohn Club would restrict admission to those who are invited although no admission would be charged, their request for the use of the hall on the evening of April 26, was denied, with the provision that if the public as a whole be invited permission would be granted. Considerable debate was held until the school law was consulted and read by Mr. Michael and this resulted in a unanimous denial of the request.

A communication from Stock & Corliss was read in which they requested the use of the auditorium for a public demonstration of the Edison phonograph in which a noted artist would sing and her selections be reproduced on a record. As the new record is played after the rendering of the song, the singer sings together with the record and when she stops the audience is unable to distinguish between the original song and its duplicate. Mr. Gill moved that the request be granted, on the condition that no advertising be distributed and his motion was seconded by Mr. Atkins. The ballot which was taken resulted in a vote of five to three against granting the request, the majority judging the demonstration an advertising scheme although they appreciated the educational advantage of such an exhibition. Trustees Atkins, Gill and Rafferty were in favor while Trustees Kearney, Hale, Van Wageningen, Kelder and Bernstein were opposed to granting the use of the hall.

When all questions as to who shall be granted the use of the auditorium were settled, the board took up its routine business, the first item being the notification of formal approval given by the state board of regents to the application of the local board for the consolidation of Kingston Academy and Ulster Academy, the certificate of which will soon follow. The matter was filed.

A communication from the Parent-Teachers' Association of School No. 6, Mrs. R. E. Leighton president, was read. It asked for the use of part of the manual training room of that school as a recreation room for taking care of pupils who have been injured or taken suddenly ill. The association will provide most of the furniture and they petition the board for only $7.50. Trustee Van Wageningen called such a room a necessity and his opinion that such should be in all schools was agreed to by the whole board. On the motion of Trustee Gill the matter was referred to the superintendent with power.

A neglected condition of the grounds of School No. 4 was reported by the Parent-Teachers' Association of that school, who asked for improvements to the property. Mr. Van Wageningen's motion that the matter be referred to the building committee to investigate and report conditions was carried.

Chairman Van Wageningen, of the finance committee, reported the total payments for the month amounted to $119,209.97, including bonds and interest, together with the monthly pay roll of $10,608.28, both of which were ordered paid. He also reported that 1 per cent of the teachers' salary for March was deducted for the teachers' pensions. Since the schools will close April 20 for the spring vacation, Trustee Van Wageningen's motion that the salaries of teachers be paid April 20, was carried.

On motion of Trustee Rafferty, of the supplies committee, they were authorized to advertise for bids for the supplies for the coming year.

Trustee Kearney's motion that the building committee be authorized to make estimates on repairs to the schools carried. Schools No. 6 and 8 need repairs more than the others, it was stated.

6, 7 and 8, which he visited and noted the great contrast to the conditions of the institutions of learning when he was one of the scholars in his grade for their close and kindly contact with the young students and admired their conduct, which he said was in direct contrast to the strict and cold discipline of many years back. This was the first occasion of his visiting the public schools of the city. Trustee Hale was able to visit only No. 5 School and this drew his attention because it was the only school he ever attended. He also was impressed by the difference of the schools now from those of his time, and opined that the pupil of five years of age knows more than that of many years ago because of the better educational advantages offered now.

After the business had been done, a discussion was held on the schools. Mr. Van Wageningen stated that they were not given enough publicity and that the scholars' motto and he urged the board and the school fathers to make more of the closing reports of the schools' progress. Because he is a new member of the board, he told President Bernstein of his views in the matter and the recent visit of the Chamber of Commerce was a result. The decision of the board was that the school fathers would visit the schools soon and in this way the public will be given an insight on the conditions.

Trustee Gill threw a bomb into the camp of high school students when he gave his opinion that grammar school scholars were better students than those of the high school because of the many outstanding attractions which distract the older pupils from their text books. A slight grin covered the faces of the trustees when someone ventured the fact that they are in grave danger of losing their jobs on the board if they were found guilty of violating the school laws in the matter of granting the illegal use of the school auditorium. Mr. Van Wageningen feared that they were liable to jeopardize the public money by careless use in this matter.

Trustee Atkins said that it mattered not how beautiful the school rooms were and how attentive the students appeared when the visiting committee made their rounds, but these are the real testing points of the scholars' motto and he urged the board and the school fathers to make more of the closing reports of the schools' progress. Because he is a new member of the board, he told President Bernstein of his views in the matter and the recent visit of the Chamber of Commerce was a result. The decision of the board was that the school fathers would visit the schools soon and in this way the public will be given an insight on the conditions.

Another Sign of Spring.
Workmen were busy this morning repairing the storm doors from the front door of the Stuyvesant Hotel. Everywhere about town signs of spring are in evidence.

Sunshine Society Meeting.
The Sunshine Society will hold its regular meeting on Monday afternoon, April 3, at the home of Mrs. Robert Fowler, No. 6 Rogers street, at the usual hour.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 1, 1916.

Nearly a year in the trenches was required before English army officers learned of the utility and danger of offering themselves as conspicuous targets for German bullets in order to obtain exercise. For months after the armies had entrenched themselves in Belgium the greatest loss among the English officers was due to this particular brand of thoughtlessness and negligence and the indifference of young subalterns especially to a policy of safety frequently led the grizzled veterans behind the lines to call to each other derisively whenever such exhibitions were made: "And a little child shall lead them." Not until recently has the opinion lost ground that some of the executive officers in the British War Office were of plastic and child-like experience and ideas, but a change has been made which has shown that experience is replacing inexperience and efficiency is supplanting inefficiency. As our own Mexican situation progresses comparisons of American official efficiency with that displayed abroad will make an interesting study. Washington seems to be filled with theorists and paper-strategists who occupy positions of authority. They are not confined to the army or the war office. Their hearts may beat rhythmically for America but something appears to be the matter with their heads; while they overflow with knowledge they lack the ability to apply it to obtain satisfactory practical results. A sensible number on the preparedness program would be the replacement of impractical with practical men.

By its action in expelling George R. Lunn, the Socialist mayor of Schenectady, from the Socialist party for his failure to appoint only Socialists to office, the state executive committee of that party has again demonstrated the fallacy of Socialism as a Utopian panacea. The particular charge on which Mayor Lunn has been expelled is that he appointed a Socialist to the position of county clerk but who did not pay his dues to the party organization. In his own defense Mayor Lunn says that in accepting the nomination he promised to appoint assistants regardless of their politics and only for their efficiency to perform the work desired of them. Although Schenectady is a Socialist stronghold, Lunn's election was made possible by the independent vote. Socialists were entitled to all the recognition possible for him to give, but in view of his pre-election promise regarding appointments the most ardent Socialist should concede his right to make appointments outside his own party provided the men named were efficient and capable. The state executive committee's denial to him of that right robs Socialism of another high ideal on which the party's growth has been predicated. Socialism in politics has not reached that plane of perfection which entitles it to throw stones.

Testifying in the trial of Former Senator William Lorimer on a charge of conspiracy to wreck the La Salle Street Trust and Savings Bank in Chicago, James B. Forgan, president of the First National Bank and chairman of the Clearing House Association, said that 75 per cent of bank loans were made on character and 25 per cent on property, and he agreed with the late J. Pierpont Morgan that character came before money or property in banking loans. This rule is well recognized by banks and the bank which goes to the wall generally will be found to have disregarded it. In most cases the insolvent bank having been misused by its own officers or directors for their own ends, which amply sustains President Forgan's inference that character must be found behind the counter as well as in front of it, because bank directors and officers frequently are allowed greater latitude in the matter of loans than outsiders. Almost all the big banks which suspended payment during the panic of 1907, as well as in other years, were found to have loaned freely the funds entrusted to their care without due regard for the character rule. Character begets confidence and in banking matters confidence begets money, while loss of confidence inevitably is followed by failure.

A suggestion has been made that Congress shall make an investigation to determine the facilities of American ships and railroads in the event that their use may become necessary in national defense. Is there a government in Europe or Asia which does not possess such information regarding its own and neighboring nations, but the United States as well? Congressional investigations pave the way for useless political fireworks and tend to delay rather than to expedite matters. Some time ago the War Department began to gather statistics concerning the output and capabilities of American munitions manufacturers. Might it not be simpler to arrange with some foreign power to supply us with the information we need concerning our own resources? Otherwise some bureau already established ought to be given authority promptly to collect the needed information if such authority does not exist already. Next week a United States transport will sail from Brooklyn with a cargo consisting of two turrets to be used on fortifications at the mouth of Manila harbor. The turrets weigh 1,500 tons apiece and were six years in building. If a Congressional investigation requires a year, as most of them do, how long would it take to formulate plans and carry them into execution in the event national defense requires use of the country's transportation facilities?

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, April 1.—Mr. and Mrs. George Hopper, who have been spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Deput, left for Kingston on Friday morning, where they will visit some of his relatives. Mrs. Theresa Smith and daughter, Mary Louise, left for New York city the first part of the week to visit relatives.

The following people visited Kingston on Thursday of this week: Mr. and Mrs. Irving Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Niles, Mrs. Harp, Mrs. Geary, Mrs. David Wood, W. L. Krom and Miss Miriam Krom.

Henry Wells has purchased a new horse. The horse he drove dropped dead in front of the stage.

James Frear was in town on Wednesday.

The Rev. Dangremont has been making pastoral call this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hopper called at the home of Miss Mary C. Van Wagener on Thursday afternoon of this week.

The Pine Mountain League met at the home of Mrs. John B. Snyder on Saturday afternoon of this week at half past two. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Cynthia Van Wagener.

On account of the illness of his father, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Schoonmaker will not move into the house of Mr. and Mrs. Festus Yeaple the first of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Snyder went into Kingston on Thursday evening to attend the play, "The Birth of a Nation." There were some others from this place who went to attend this play.

Mrs. J. D. Osterhout of Cottekill spent Wednesday of this week with relatives in this place.

The O. & W. pay car passed through this place on Tuesday.

Mrs. Oscar Church spent a few days in Kingston this week with Mrs. Dangremont and her daughter.

The Ladies' Aid will meet to quilt in the basement of the Reformed Church on Thursday of the coming week, April 6. Dinner will be served at the church. All the members are requested to be present and bring their friends.

WEINER HOSE BENEFIT.

"Cabiria," Great Photo Spectacle, to be Given Wednesday.

D'Annunzio's famous photo spectacle, "Cabiria," which will be shown next Wednesday, April 5th, at the Broadway Casino, is one of the most marvelous of the spectacular scenes ever portrayed in the moving picture world. Some of these which deal with the saving of a little child from being offered as a sacrifice to Moloch are startling in their action. The thrilling escapes of the hero and his gigantic black lieutenant are numerous but all are carried out with some attention to dramatic detail and continuity. "Cabiria" cannot be described but really must be seen to be appreciated. Persons who have seen this picture which is in ten reels pronounce it the superior of any of the big spectacular productions on the market. The fact that the attraction is offered under the auspices of Weiner Hose Company will be an added feature as the popular members of this veteran fire fighting apparatus have many friends who will be glad to lend a hand in support of their undertaking.

NOT HENRY WIEBER.

Neither He Nor His Father Was Ever in Bankruptcy.

Through a mistake The Freeman printed an item that appraisers had been appointed in the case of Henry Wieber, bankrupt. It should have said in the case of Frederick E. Wieber, who at one time conducted a plumbing business on lower Broadway under the name of Estate of Henry E. Wieber. Neither Henry E. Wieber nor his son, Henry, have ever been in bankruptcy.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

April 1, 1896.—Steamer James W. Baldwin made first trip of season.

Slight fire in residence of Mrs. Gozardus on Bruyn avenue.

Yokel's Band of Rondout, N. Y., M. C. A. tendered Secretary Jacoby a banquet.

Barn on the Charles K. Hammett place on Golden Hill destroyed by fire.

April 1, 1906.—Thomas McLaughlin committed suicide at Olive Branch. Rev. Fletcher Hamlin preached farewell sermon in Port Ewen Methodist Church.

Miss Helen T. Ramsey started series of evangelical meetings in local churches.

TENT CATERPILLAR CONTEST IS ON

Manager Hook of the Farm Bureau has sent out the circular letters pertaining to the tent caterpillar egg gathering contest to all of the schools of the county and also to the principals of the different city schools and an effort should be made by the students of the city schools to compete with the country children in an endeavor to rid the city of the tent caterpillar pests. Every tree and hedge in the city should be cleaned and public spirited citizens and people interested in the beautifying of our city should get together and offer some reward to the children in the city who will take up the work. A fair price for the egg masses would be about five cents a hundred and everyone who is interested in preserving our shade trees and hedges should try and interest the school children. Last year in the city not one school took up the work and the entire number of egg masses gathered were secured in the county. It is hoped that by the offer of a small compensation the city school children will be encouraged in entering the contest in competition with the country scholars.

Three prizes will be awarded in the county beside special prizes which will be offered by individuals in certain districts. The first prize is $3, the second $2, and the third $1.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, April 1.—The Rev. and Mrs. Grant E. Robinson, who have been the guests of Mrs. Robinson's mother, Mrs. G. P. Griffin, on Hamilton street, returned to their home in Malden Friday.

Mrs. William Fox of Kingston spent Friday with her sister, Mrs. Clarence Hotelling on Broadway.

Mrs. Eugene Wayne of Edgelyville is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Reginald Van Leuven, on Broadway.

Jacob Miller, carpenter and builder, is remodeling the interior of the house of Mrs. Lillian Elsworth on Broadway.

Alvin Schoonmaker is painting the house of Mrs. G. W. Ross on Salem street.

Mrs. Lillian Elsworth of Kingston spent Friday with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Van Vleet, on Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Elsworth of Kingston spent the week end with Mr. Elsworth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Elsworth, on Broadway.

Church notices for Sunday:

Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout, pastor.—Sunday school at 9:30. Morning worship at 10:30; theme, "God in the Beginning." Epworth League service at 5:30; topic, "Outgrowing Home Religion." Col. 2: 8. Leaders, Wallace Mable and Leslie R. Foote. Evening worship at 7:30; theme, "Surface Religion."

Church of the Incarnation, the Rev. M. Gearin, rector.—Mass at 7:30 and 10:30. Sunday school at 2:30.

Reformed Church.—Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., instead of 10 o'clock, as heretofore. Morning worship at 10:30, to be conducted by the Rev. W. F. Stowe of Kingston, N. Y. At this service the newly elected officers will be installed. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p. m.; topic, "The Consecration of Time." Scripture reference, Psalms 90: 1-17. Evening service at 7:30, at which time Mr. Sheffer will preach. It should be noted that the time of Sunday school and morning worship is one-half hour earlier than heretofore and this schedule will be continued through the summer season.

The Rev. J. H. Moore of Kingston will preach at the Sleightsbrough Chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kind deeds during the sudden death of our husband and father, and also to all who by their kind words and acts, expressed their sympathy to us in our sad bereavement, and also wish to thank the employees of the Fessenden Shirt Company and all the many other friends for their beautiful floral tributes.

ADVERTISING AS A SOCIAL FORCE

Two recent and conspicuous examples of paid publicity aimed to gain ends other than the sale of commodities reassert the increasing importance of advertising as a social force. One of these, declares Printer's Ink, is the newspaper campaign of Henry Ford to stimulate a more general and careful public consideration of the merits of the preparedness movement. Another is the campaign now under way to preserve Fifth avenue, New York, from the factory invasion that threatens its prestige as a high class retail and residential center.

In both instances the purport of the campaign is to set in motion a more general public interest in matters pertaining to the common weal; the one national, the other purely civic and local. As explained by one of Mr. Ford's representatives:

"Mr. Ford's real purpose in this advertising is not to oppose preparedness per se, but to excite a full and free discussion of this question among the American people; to stimulate everybody to think out the problem for himself, so that whatever action follows will represent the real voice of the majority."

Again, of the advertising to preserve Fifth avenue, it is stated:

"Sentiment, as well as the financial aspect, is behind this movement. New Yorkers naturally take a pride in Fifth avenue as the greatest street of retail shops and fine residences in the world. It is to preserve that Fifth avenue that this movement has been started."

Printers' Ink has hitherto made frequent references to other publicity campaigns designed to bring about certain public ends. The big and significant point about this advertising is that advertising or paid publicity has been invoked to get real action, where the scattered efforts of individual associations or journals had failed.

Time and again, as the records of innumerable associations will reveal, funds have been set aside "for publicity purposes." Too often such "publicity" consists of a heavily stated, wordy and lengthy recitation of grievances or conditions, which is multigraphed and sent broadcast to legislators, public officials, civic bodies and the more or less indifferent mercies of newspaper editors. The result of such publicity, if any, prove in the majority of cases to be scattered and disoriented, without any special co-ordinate effects or appeal to the public as a whole.

Take the movement to save Fifth avenue: over and over again newspapers have lamented editorially the cancerous spread of manufacturing into this admittedly distinctive retail center. Civic bodies and merchants' associations have met and grown panicky over the situation. Yet nothing definite resulted. Municipal apathy to the situation continued, until the campaign just inaugurated was started as a final and supreme effort to get something done—and something is now being done! Already, among other things, the advertising has served to stimulate a general and united editorial comment on the part of the New York newspapers, jacking up the city government to take a hand in the movement. Definite steps are under way between the manufacturers concerned, the retailers affected and real estate and financial interests to get together and formulate a working basis for future development. Where individual effort failed, the power of united publicity is winning.

A casual glance into the research department of Printers' Ink reveals a multitude of parallel instances where advertising has served to bring to pass some movement for the common good. There was, for example, the advertising campaign conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of Rochester, N. Y., to eliminate Saturday night as a shopping time, out of fairness to the retail stores' employees. This campaign, in practically a month's time, shortened the working week of more than 6,000 salespeople and delivery men.

Again, there is the advertising by railroads and public service corporations in behalf of the "Safety First" movement, of which an example was the campaign of the Long Island railroad last summer; advertising aimed to arouse in the public a greater caution and sense of personal responsibility in avoiding personal injury.

We might quote innumerable other examples, such as community advertising, where sections use paid publicity to attract settlers; or political advertising. Just at present the tax reduction committee of New York city is carrying on an advertising campaign in newspapers to interest the voters in the movement to seek legislative relief from what is regarded as unjust taxation of this city for the benefit of the state.

In certain instances this kind of advertising undoubtedly is undertaken to gain indirectly some personal benefits, but usually only so far as this results from the general welfare of the community as a whole. It is a significant tribute to the organized power of paid publicity that it is resorted to as a final means of enlisting general public confidence and support where individual efforts, no matter how sincerely and earnestly directed, have failed.

At A. M. C. A. Sunday.

The religious service at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon will take the part of a moving picture called "From the Manger to the Cross." This picture is in seven parts and the pictures are said to be unusually clear. Owing to the enormous crowds that have attended these services it has been arranged to have two services. The first one at 2 o'clock will be for children only, and the second at 3:45 o'clock for adults only.

Singers in Poughkeepsie.

Emilio DeGorgozza will give a concert in the Collingwood Opera House, Poughkeepsie, on April 10. Another musical attraction in that city is John McCormack, the famous Irish tenor, who will sing on May 15.

NEW PALTZ.

New Paltz, April 1.—On Tuesday evening, April 4, Miss Ruth Deyo, the celebrated pianist of this village, who is now with the Boston Symphony, will give one of her recitals in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium in Kingston under the auspices of the Wiltyck Chapter, D. A. R. of Kingston.

Mrs. Josiah LeFavre will entertain the Study Club on Tuesday next.

Mrs. James Douglass attended the W. C. T. U. convention in Highland yesterday.

Miss Lois Reynolds of Buckley University has been spending the spring vacation with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Reynolds.

Miss Ethel Storr of Wellesley College is spending the spring term at her home.

Townsend Abrams of Highland was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Myria Deyo was the guest of Mrs. Townsend Abrams last evening.

Rev. James Douglass has returned from Peekskill.

Normal will close Friday for the spring recess.

The minstrel boys will give their play April 13 and 14 in the opera house.

W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE AT HIGHLAND

(Official Report.)

The Wednesday afternoon session of the Ulster County W. C. T. U. Institute at Highland was opened with a prayer and praise service led by Mrs. W. C. T. U. president of the Kingston Union. After singing "Holy, Holy, Holy," Mrs. Hendricks led in prayer. The leader read selections from the Bible, her theme being our walk through life. The triumph song by Miss Gordon was sung and a prayer for Ulster county offered by Mrs. John D. Piper of Clintondale. All rose and sang the national hymn and then the institute was called to order by the president.

The minutes of the morning session were read and approved. Mrs. William Conine of Wallkill gave echoes from the state convention. Mrs. J. D. Rose, of Highland, the corresponding secretary, then gave some very excellent thoughts and suggestions how to reach the goal of 20 per cent advance in our county.

Mrs. Florence Blakeley of Highland favored us with a fine piano solo.

Having just arrived Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston gave a short talk. She came direct from the state president, Mrs. Boone, who sent greetings to the institute.

A symposium on campaign plans for national prohibition followed, opening with "The Value of Prayer" by Miss M. F. Bishop of Port Jervis. "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung. Mrs. M. E. Maynard of Highland told of the great work accomplished by posters. Posters always attract and should be largely used. A number of posters were exhibited to the audience. Among them were "The Licensed Saloon," "Help Kill the Beast," "The Poison Shop," "What will you take, boys?" "Which shall rule? Jesus or Alcohol?"

Mrs. J. D. Rose read the paper prepared by Mrs. Edward Young on the "Story of the Prohibition Amendment." Mrs. J. D. Rose read "Sundays School as a Factor in the Fight Against Alcoholism." It is becoming popular, it becomes a success. October 23rd is designated as World's Temperance Sunday.

Mrs. J. D. Rose told how the organizations can be used to make sentiment. Sixteen departments are being carried in Ulster county.

Mrs. F. B. Palmer of Clintondale told how the children can help and she was glad that national prohibition had become a universal object. The children can help by being taught common sense, to carry banners with mottoes and slogans. Children's rallies prove a good way to reach doubtful voters for fathers will come out to hear their child speak.

Mrs. Alice Crispell spoke of the Young People's Branch as a factor in making sentiment. The Y. P. B. is a band of young people whose standards are high and much of the world's work is being carried on by these young folks.

Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston spoke on "Emancipate World Woman's Vote." Her answer was "Yes." It had helped in the states that have the vote. The only way to reach this country of the liquor traffic is by the vote. We must work and pray unceasingly to win the ballot.

Mrs. Della Terwilliger told how campaign literature was a factor in our campaign for National Prohibition. Temperance papers and temperance books should be in all libraries. Temperance plotters should be in our schools.

Mrs. Philip Schantz of Highland sang a solo in a charming manner.

The Local Temperance Legion hour, in charge of Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. M. E. Maynard, was one of the very pleasing features of the institute. The children marched in singing, "Onward Christian Soldiers," accompanied by piano and violin. A solo was sung by Raymond Sutton, followed by recitations and song.

Exercise, by members of the Legion.

Recitation . . . . . Gordon Kurtz
Selection . . . . . Orchestra
Recitation . . . . . Parker Ducker
Exercise—Temperance Pledge in Community . . . . . 14 Girls

Mrs. Alice Crispell, county superintendent had charge of the Y. P. B. hour, beginning with a selection by the orchestra.

Mrs. Helen G. Estelle, of Poughkeepsie, who is one of the state organizers of the W. C. T. U., was present and gave an inspiring talk on the work being done in the Y. P. B. A piano solo by Miss Margaret Coddington followed. Mrs. J. William Taylor, of Walden, made a solo of the community need of a Y. P. B. The Rev. George H. Senfield gave a short talk on Christian Endeavor cooperation in temperance work. The closing number was a vocal solo by Mrs. Carolyn Senfield.

The institute then adjourned to the lecture room, where a beautiful report was served to the delegates.

Evening Session.

The evening session opened with an anthem, "Praise Ye the Lord," by the Choral Union. The musical program was of a very high order.

Much interest was taken in the poster parade, each superintendent carrying one representing the work of her department.

The Rev. George H. Senfield read the scriptures, Phil. IV, and led in prayer.

Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston of Banker, Mo., national superintendent of branches, a veteran worker in the ranks of the W. C. T. U., gave the address of the institute. On "The Woman's Battle for National Constitutional Prohibition." Mrs. Knox proved to be an attractive, forceful speaker, and her charm and wise personality immediately won the attention of the large audience who had gathered to hear this gifted woman.

In beginning her discourse, Mrs. Knox portrayed the conditions at the Persian court of Ahasuerus and described the personality of Vashti, and Esther. Vashti was the first woman of whom we have record that insisted on her own rights, for which she was dethroned. Esther succeeded, and her success in a difficult position was due to four characteristics—conviction, courage, courtesy and compassion.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, with forty years' work, have the record of the most wonderful achievement in any reform in the world's history. It is but one hundred years since the inception of the temperance reform and that was by no means total abstinence, merely a curtailment of the number of drinks daily.

The W. C. T. U. is the outgrowth of the crusades, that wonderful movement in Ohio. Behold the change since then. Then the drunkard snaker was thought to be the tender, and the women began their crusade with the idea of converting the drunkard and the bartender. As the women worked they learned that the drunkard maker is the man who by his vice legalizes the traffic, the legislator who gives his influence to the liquor business. Then the women knocked at the door of education and we received scientific temperance instruction, then at the doors of medical men, who through research have proved alcohol to be the enemy of humanity. No temperance organization has taken so wide a sweep, all have followed in our lines. The Anti-Saloon League has done wonderful work along certain lines which means that being a man's organization they had two helps the woman lacked—the pocketbook and ballot.

We have a right to ask the liquor interests, which represent so much money, what are you doing for humanity? How do you get rid of disease? By curing it? No. By preventing it? No. We remove the cause. Our medical friends state that the removal of alcohol eliminates 50 per cent of disease and 72 per cent of feeble-mindedness and insanity.

The poverty we see on all sides would be reduced 87 per cent. Crime cannot be cured, but it may be prevented. 92 per cent of crime and federal institutions are filled with those who are there because of alcohol.

Once the liquor interests were the great political power in our legislative halls, but thank God for the advance which makes them now only a great political power.

Because we believe the liquor traffic to be an un-American institution we demand its annihilation.

The men of New York are part disfranchised when the state denies to a town of the population of Elmira the right to say we will or we will not have a dry town, but where this happened the women could have shown the men what they were doing as they know so well what it is to be disfranchised.

Each step in the manufacture of legitimate business increases the value of the product, but the production of the liquor business goes down in the scale of humanity a continuous depreciation in its product.

What are its allies? White slave traffic, child labor and disease. Testimony is growing. Not from the temperance crank, the public speaker, the minister or lobbyist, but from the willard of the pacifistic ring. To Cobb from the diamond and in all lines there has been a constant increase.

After months of fighting the only real gain made by the warring nations has been prohibition. We cannot talk of prohibition without woman suffrage. The brewers say two things are killing their business, big business and woman's ballot. Efficiency in big business deals against the liquor traffic.

An anti-suffragist will say, women have voted 30 years in Wyoming, but it is a wet state. They fail to tell you that Wyoming is 92 per cent dry, and that there are nine men to every woman voter.

We are the modern Esthers, who are to set our republic free.

Mrs. Livingston was frequently interrupted by applause, and the address was received with intense interest.

A quartet, "Come Unto Me," was sung by Mrs. G. H. Brown, soprano, Mrs. Lulu Sutton, alto, Thurlow Weed, tenor, G. H. Brown, bass. The orchestra followed with a fine selection and after the offering the Choral Union sang very effectively, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains." The session closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. L. C. Coddington of the Methodist Church.

Thursday Morning.

The morning session opened with a devotion service led by Mrs. James R. Douglas, vice president, of New York. After singing, Stand up for Jesus, the leader read a selection from Romans XIV and Mrs. Edna Young led in prayer, and the service closed with singing, "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone." The minutes were read and approved, also the minutes of the executive session. It was recommended that the trustees act in the matter of the legacy of the John Hunt of Ellenville estate. The resolution was adopted. A question box was conducted by Mrs. Livingston and the questions submitted were able and interestingly answered.

The Rev. M. V. Dezel of New Paltz spoke of ways to reach boys in temperance work. Interest in the boys in the opinion of the baseball players about the effect of alcohol, then teach them the effect on mind, on pocketbook, on business and morals, and related boys to the boys' temperance. After a piano solo by Mrs. Kelsey Stokes of Wallkill, Miss J. L. Fresh of Milton was introduced, and spoke on causes for the defeat in the suffrage campaign. What next? In the last campaign they had followed somewhat in the footsteps of politicians, taking the ward system. There was also much publicity work done, for they believed in the W. C. T. U. policy, action, education, legislation.

They had all the opposition they expected from real enemies, from the suffragists and the indifferent, but they were to have polled a vote of 47,610 per cent of the electorate more than many presidents had received, and so well to go to the polls again in 1917 fully expecting to win. If we do we must hate the women, all the women, for because of their lack of interest in the last election we had failed to win at the polls.

The Rev. J. C. Coddington then made a few remarks, closing with a remark made at conference when a speaker said he believed in five years the United States would be as dry as dust.

Successful programs, how to arrange, were given by presidents of the local unions, the general opinion being that printed programs, debate, strong arguments and presentation of department work, made a successful meeting, but the principal part was to have a devotional service as the keynote of the meeting.

The noonday prayer was led by Mrs. Alice Stevens of Tilton.

Mrs. Livingston and Mrs. Estelle then came to the platform and gave a few words of farewell.

After the session a bountiful luncheon was served to the delegates.

Thursday Afternoon Session.

Mrs. Dwight A. Silliman of Highland opened the afternoon session with a service of praise and prayer. All joined in singing, "A Charge to Keep I Have," and the First Psalm was recited in concert, followed by remarks by the leader on the second coming of the Lord. Mrs. Bray led in prayer, and devotions were closed by singing "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me."

The resolutions committee reported as follows:

Resolved, acknowledging the guidance and help of our Heavenly Father in the work of the Ulster County W. C. T. U. we come to this institute with joy, because of the daily verification of truth of the promise, the way of the wicked He turneth upside down.

We rejoice because of every advance made in our work for the action of the American Insurance Union in classing bartender, saloon keeper as equally hazardous risks with soldiers and railroad men, and their refusal to loan money on property in any way connected with liquor interests; for the recognition given by many colleges to the importance of the study of alcohol in its scientific and social aspects; for the action excluding brandy and whiskey from the list of drugs in the National Pharmacopoeia; for the increasing friendliness of the press toward the Prohibition movement; for the victory of statewide Prohibition in Iowa, Arkansas, Idaho and South Carolina, and for the increased interest in congress on the question of National Constitutional Prohibition.

Resolved, that we are glad to note the interest in equal rights throughout the states.

We regret the failure to report assembly bill No. 1359 on local option for third class cities.

We consider as vicious the bill introduced by Assemblyman Oldfield, providing that when a town shall vote dry that in the following June, by special petition, a town election may be held to vote when certain named hotel men or druggists shall be allowed to have a liquor license. From a temperance standpoint this is a bad bill since its purpose is to help and not cripple the liquor business.

We note with interest another great hearing on the Bible reading bill before the state senate committee on education, and earnestly trust that this bill which requires the daily reading of the Bible in all the public schools of the state will be passed.

Whereas, all war is contrary to the principles of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ, and a failure in setting difficulties with justice, and whereas, the attitude of the United States toward the nations now at war fostered abroad, without doubt, precipitated the disastrous conflict across the sea.

Be it resolved, that we deplore the developments of the mania for "Preparedness" in the United States and that we protest against the naval program for an additional appropriation of $500,000,000 for ten years, for use in constructing dreadnaughts and other munitions of war as an extravagant and unnecessary burden upon the resources of the nation, hindering true prosperity by greatly increasing the present high cost of living, and as having a tendency to invite rather than avert war, by exciting the suspicions of other nations, and moreover by making more difficult our overtures which it may be the privilege of the United States as a neutral country to offer for conciliation among the nations now at war.

Resolved: That the W. C. T. U. has always stood for total abstinence for the individual. We rejoice that we have in six towns, an increase of five this year, with several others coming near to victory.

Resolved: That we extend our congratulations to the union of Ellenville, who are to receive the benefit of a generous legacy by the will of John R. Hunt.

We express our grateful appreciation to the Highland W. C. T. U. for the pleasure in making both pleasant and profitable our stay with them. We thank the president of the union for her loving welcome, the trustees, members and pastor for the use of their beautiful church, the musical committee and orchestra for their music, the L. T. L. and the speakers, the entertainment committee for their courtesies; we thank all who in any way contributed to our pleasure and comfort.

Mrs. Rose followed with the tonic, "Glimpses of a Decade in Ulster County," raising the work done by the Anti-Saloon League and the Citizens' League along the lines of law enforcement, the change from fermented to unf fermented wine at the sacrament in the churches, the establishment of a tuberculosis camp in Ulster county, the action of the railroad in eliminating liquor users from their employ, the interest of the mothers of Ulster county in the welfare of the Austrian, Spanish, Italian and other foreign speaking mothers, teaching them the care of infants, and the preparations of national foods.

Miss Catherine Bell, daughter of the president, Mrs. M. H. Bell, was then introduced to the institute.

The entertainment committee was called to the platform and with hands joined, all present sang, "Blest be the Tie," and with prayer by the president the Ulster County W. C. T. U. adjourned to meet at Clintondale next fall.

Blessed Mar.

Blessed is the man and beloved of all the gods who is afraid of no man, and of whom no man is afraid.—Vedas.

SCHOOL HOUSE MEETINGS RESUMED

Next Wednesday, April 5, the first of the school house meetings since bad weather set in will be held at Oliveira. These meetings were held throughout the county during the fair part of the season, but since winter storms prevented the meetings from being well attended they have been called off. The meeting on Wednesday will be the resumption of the school house meetings in the county. Similar meetings will be held throughout the county.

Manager Hook will lead the meeting on Wednesday when he will choose for his topic "Increasing the Quantity and Quality of Hay," touching on increased tonnage per acre by using stable manure, lime and commercial fertilizers and increasing the quality by the use of leguminous crops as alfalfa, alsike clover, vetch, etc. This meeting was arranged by Wallace J. Andrews of Oliveira and William Cruickshank of Big Indian and other interested members of the Farm Bureau. The meeting will be called at 8 o'clock.

Spencer's Business School Notes.

The following students and graduates have secured good business positions with leading commercial houses, banking establishments, etc., during the past few days:

Leroy Hammond, a graduate of the combined course, has obtained an excellent position with the Rondout National Bank, this city.

Miss Katherine Herring, of the combined course, has secured a splendid position in the office of the Sauter's Manufacturing Company, Saugerties, N. Y.

Francis Mullany, a graduate of stenography and bookkeeping, recently secured a good paying position with the Bayard Chemical Company, Woodbridge, N. J.

Robert Dunn, a graduate in stenography, has obtained a fine office position with a large New York business house.

Miss Alma Henderson, a graduate of the stenographic department of Spencer's, has obtained an excellent position as stenographer with C. H. Cross, attorney and counselor at law, 114 Greene street, Utica, N. Y.

Harold Braby of the commercial department has secured a good position at Mohonk Lake for the summer. Mr. Braby will return to Spencer's in the fall to complete the course he has so nicely started.

Miss Carrie Robins, of the shorthand and typewriting department, is serving nicely as stenographer in the law offices of Francis Merritt, Fair street, this city.

Robert Adams of the business department of Spencer's has secured a good position as freight clerk with the New York Transportation Company, New York city.

Porrett E. Owen, of the commercial department, was recently placed in a splendid position as assistant bookkeeper with Everett and Treadwell, Broadway, this city. Mr. Owen is a very fine penman, and his work has attracted considerable attention.

Life Without Lace.

"One can't help thinking what a colorless life a man is forced to lead, when one reflects that chiffon and Venetian point and hand embroidery and Irish crochet are to him mere empty words. Whereas a woman, whether she is interested in babies, or microbes, or husbands, or poetry, or Plato, or bridge, is fundamentally and always interested in clothes.—From Daddy-Long Legs, by Jean Webster.

Ellenville, April 1.—"Uncle Jake" Freer celebrated his 55th birthday in Ellenville on Wednesday, March 29. The day was not more bright than the face of "Uncle Jake," as he is familiarly called by every one who greets him, as he is seen upon the streets of the village every day. Mr. Freer was born at Briggs Street in a log cabin upon the farm now owned and occupied by Ambrose Harris, and has resided his long life in the town of Warwasing. His grandfather, Peter Freer, of Revolutionary fame, came to this section of the country from Dutchess county and lived to the good old age of 102 years. Mr. Freer's father, Peter Freer, was a well known farmer, for many years residing at Briggs Street, where the subject of this sketch was born and grew to manhood, and was married to Miss Susan Clemons of Greenfield, 65 years ago, on February 12, at which time Ellenville friends gave the couple a very pleasant anniversary surprise. Mr. Freer is as well preserved in both mind and body as can be expected of a man nearing the hundredth year mark. Very hearty congratulations were showered upon this aged man by his many friends, but no celebration of the day was held.

Miss Rapp of the high school faculty announces that the pupils of the Ellenville schools will again make a campaign against the apple tree caterpillar, one of the worst nuisances we have to contend with in this section. The committee in charge of the campaign will be the Misses Ellen TerBush, Greenfield, and Irene Moore, Grahamsville, and George C. Rose, Joseph Watson and Earl Count of Ellenville. Miss Rapp informs us that the work will be done by pupils capable of removing the egg clusters without injuring the trees.

The annual congregation meeting of the Reformed Church was held on Wednesday evening, J. J. Arnoys and R. T. Cookingham were elected elders. J. K. Lathrop and Nial Deput, deacons. Quarterly communion service with reception of members will be held Sunday morning. Regular preaching service in the evening.

The Rev. W. H. Moser returned from conference on Tuesday and was greeted with a warm welcome from his church people at the prayer service Wednesday evening. The regular church services will be held on Sunday, both morning and evening. Sunday school at the usual hour, 12:45. Junior League, in charge of Miss Nellie Newkirk, at 3 in the afternoon, and Epworth League devotional service at 6:45 o'clock.

The Rev. R. H. Travis, D. D., a former well known pastor of the Ellenville M. E. Church, returns to Duane Church, New York city, and enters upon his 14th year as pastor of that church.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Smiley and Mrs. W. W. Graham attended the County W. C. T. U. Institute held at Highland on Wednesday and Thursday, and report one of the best institutes ever held in the county. Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston, as the lecturer, was a pronounced success.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Kelp left for their new home at Pine Bush on Friday.

William Stratton has purchased of Chris. Sherry his fine road horse, Prince. Mr. Sherry expects to take a position out of town at an early date.

Oris Sheeley, who has been in charge of the farm at Ulster Lake for Messrs. Divine for some years, is moving to his newly purchased farm near Beaver Dam. Many local fishermen regret the departure of Mr. Sheeley.

Thomas H. Collins of Park street has been spending several days in Sullivan county.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, April 1.—The expected has come to pass.

From out of the southland training camps have come stories that tell of two happenings in keeping with the almost unanimous predictions:

(1) Ninety per cent of the "bushers" who got a try-out failed to deliver.

(2) Practically all the Federal League players have delivered in a way that has won regular berths for them.

There were many folks who had the impression that the Federal League couldn't stand the major league stuff, that they would show up as "bloomers" when in job competition with the men who were regulars for the National and American Leagues last season.

But the Feds, in practically every instance, have shown themselves to be as good—or better—than their rivals.

Feds Who Made Good.

The Giants snared four Feds—and every one has made good with a whoop. The Braves got three—and all three delivered. The Yankees took two Fed regulars of 1915 and one who would have played with the Feds in 1916 had the league existed. Every one becomes a Yankee regular.

Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn also tried out some Feds. They were not in a class with those secured by the other clubs, yet each has shown enough to merit his retention.

It was expected that Benny Kauff would star, and so far as he has, he is just beginning to hit. His drives have all the power that he showed in a Federal League uniform. Bill Hardien, the regular catcher for the 1915 Newark Feds, has won the backstopping job with the Giants. He is being called "the best all-around catcher the Giants have had for six or seven years."

Fred Anderson was a star hurler for the Buffalo Feds last season. He has shown as much brilliancy in a Giant uniform and will be one of the pitching regulars. Eddie Rousch reported late but he had demonstrated beyond a question of doubt that he is a wonderful outfielder.

Lee Magee is one of the stars of the rejuvenated Yankee eleven. Nick Cullip, the best left-hander in the 1915 Gilmore circuit, has won—with ease—a regular turn in the pitching rotation of the Yankees. Joe Gordon, a sensation in the Pacific Coast League last year and later signed up by the Feds, will be the Yankee second sacker.

Konetchy Strengthened Braves.

Ed. Konetchy played the first sack for the Braves in the training camp as he hasn't been played in years. The big Bohemian has convinced the skeptics that not only has he not gone back, but that he has come forward, both as a fielder and hitter. Allen and Kneizer, pitchers for the 1915 Pittsburgh Feds, will be among Stallings' hurling mainstays this summer.

The ratio of flivvers among the owners this year, however, has been on a par with that of other years. Only about one out of every ten youngsters that trekked the southern trail will come back with a major league job. The majority of the successful ones, however, are unable to get berths. The best they could do was to win utility jobs.

The major league clubs expended something like $250,000 during 1915 for promising looking rookies. But most of the money has been wasted. The "second Ty Cobb," the "new Christy Matthews" and the "better than Eddie Collinses" have gone back whence they came. They were wonders in the minors, but when subjected to the big league test they failed.

The $9,000 Flivver.

Conspicuous among the failures is Dan Tiptoe. Pitching for Indianapolis last season, he won the American Association title with his brilliant work. His hurling feats were heralded far and wide. An army of scouts looked him over and pronounced him a star of the first water. And then the clubs began bidding for him.

Higher and higher shot the bid price. "$9,000," yelled the owners of the New York Yankees. The other bidders became silent and Tiptoe was turned over to the Ruppert-Huston combination. Great things were expected of Tiptoe. But he flivvered. His curve ball was easy to hit; his speed, described as "blinding," never caused a blink in the Macon camp. Tiptoe was an A wonder, but not good enough to fulfill the Yankee standard. And so Tiptoe, the $9,000 flivver, is going back.

Yes, there is a slight difference between the minors and the majors, Oscar.
